Introducing Sapient Press!

Sapient Press is an American-based open access publisher of peer reviewed academic journals that cover a broad range of social science (business, economics, etc.) and education related disciplines. Sapient Press also offers conferences organized to facilitate the sharing of collective research.

For more details, please visit: www.sapientpress.com!

Editors / Reviewers Requested

Sapient Press is currently seeking editors and reviewers to assist with the publishing of our three journals. This opportunity is especially geared towards new professors and PhD holders looking to broaden their experience and build their resumes. If you have academic experience in social science fields related to business or economics or education-based fields such as TESOL, language instruction or linguistics, please contact admin@sapientpress.com.

Call for Publishing!

Sapient Press welcomes the submission of original manuscripts that relate to a broad range of business, economics and other social science related disciplines as well as topics related to teaching, education and language learning. Manuscripts should meet the general criteria of significance and scientific excellence. Sapient Press will publish articles in basic and applied research and case studies. Visit the site for more information.

We invite you to submit your manuscripts to editor@sapientpress.com for publication in one of our family of academic journals.

Featured Paper: What's in a Name? A Look at the Adoption of English Names by Korean Learners of English

Our featured article was written by Catherine Gallagher, a professor from Sejong University of Seoul, South Korea. The article, "What's in a Name? A Look at the Adoption of English Names by Korean Learners of English," was published in the International Journal of Teaching, Education and Language Learning. The article focuses on why the study participants chose, accept or reject English names as part of their language learning or professional identities.
